Hard

- c. choose (Customized Game)

Players can customize player names, rows and columns, and the number of obstacles.

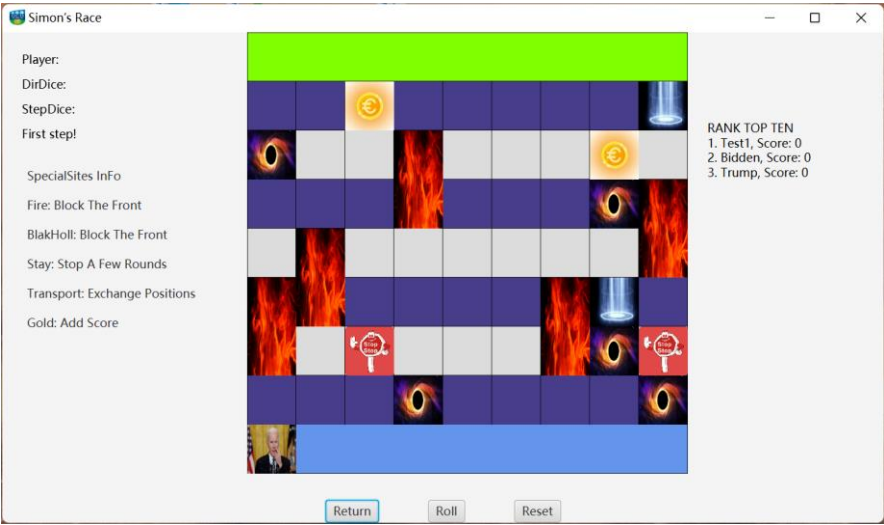

The screenshot shows a window titled "Simon's Race" with a standard Windows-style title bar (minimize, maximize, close buttons). The main area is light gray. In the center, there is a blue button labeled "Add Player". Below it, there are three input fields: "Row:" with the value "6", "Col:" with the value "6", and "Obstacles:" with the value "1". At the bottom right of these fields are two buttons: "Return" and "Start".

Add a player Test1, and set the row and column to 9 and the obstacle generation indicator to 5.

The screenshot shows the same "Simon's Race" window. The "Add Player" button is now gray. The input fields have been updated: "Row:" is "9", "Col:" is "9", and "Obstacles:" is "5". The "Return" and "Start" buttons remain at the bottom right.

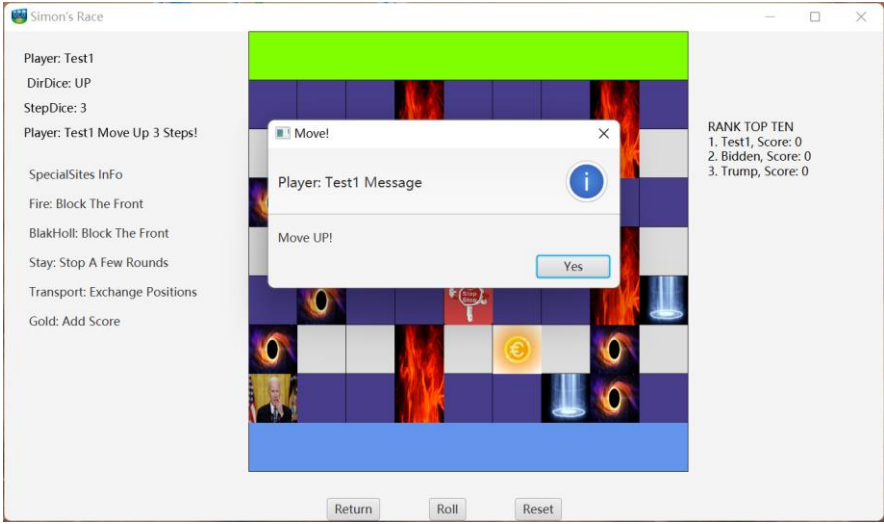

Enter the game view.

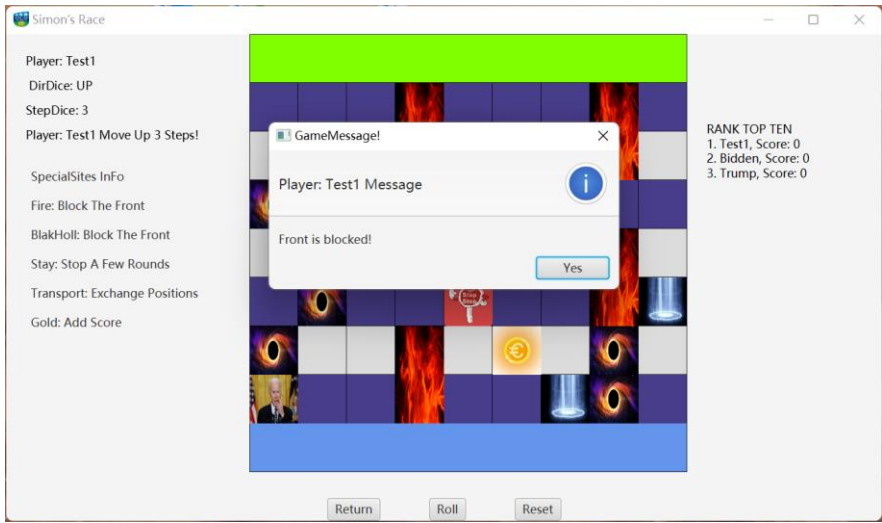

The left side will show which player turn is currently on, the direction the player is moving, and the number of steps the player is moving. There is also obstacle information displayed.

The right side shows the player's scoreboard. The default score for a newly created player is 0.

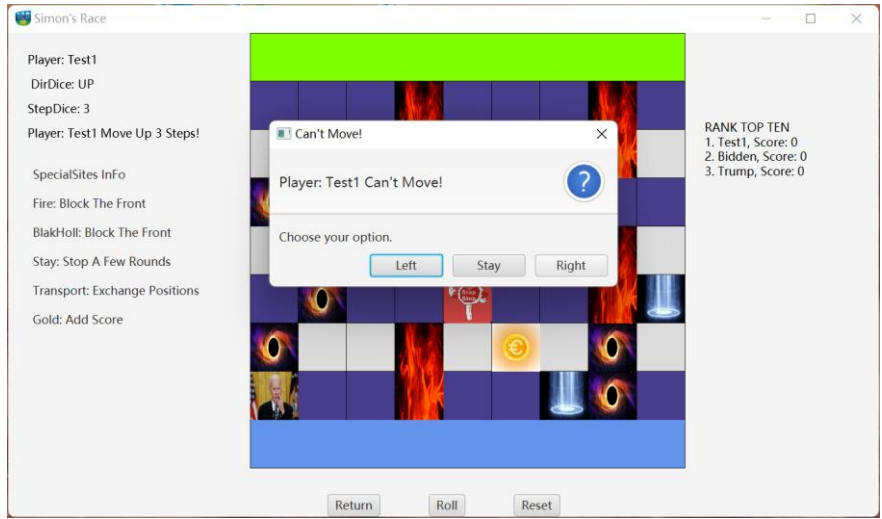

The player moved up.

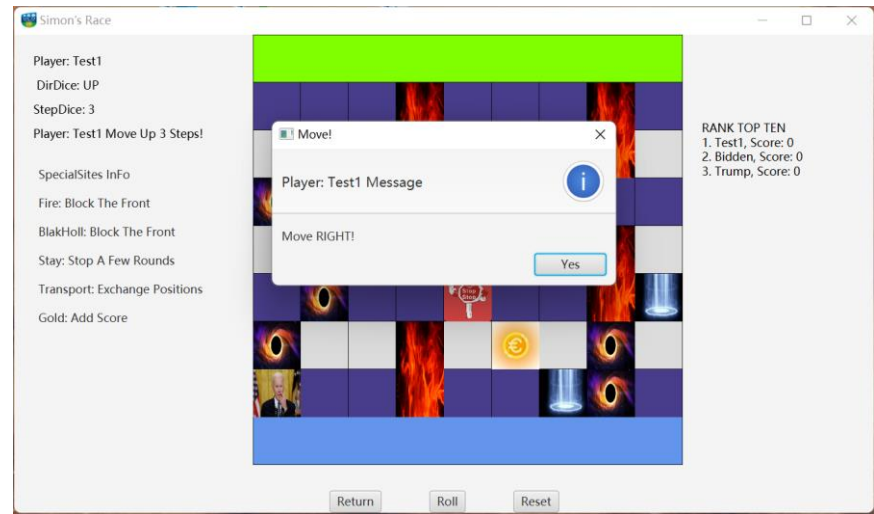

But obviously, the player is blocked by BlackHoll in front.

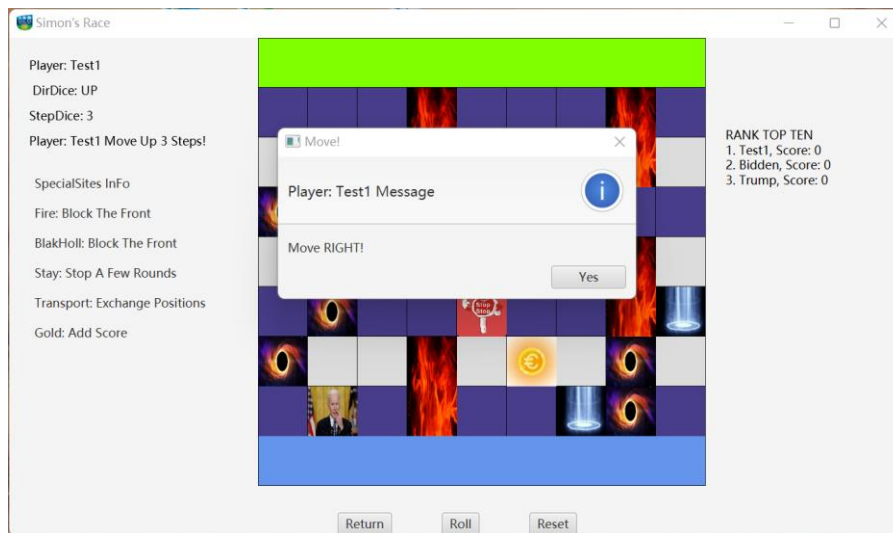

He needs to make a choice.

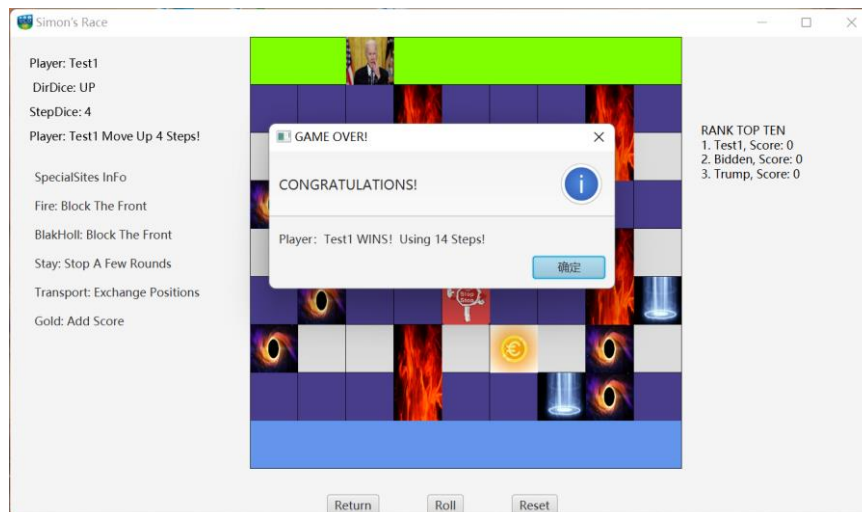

He chooses to move to the right

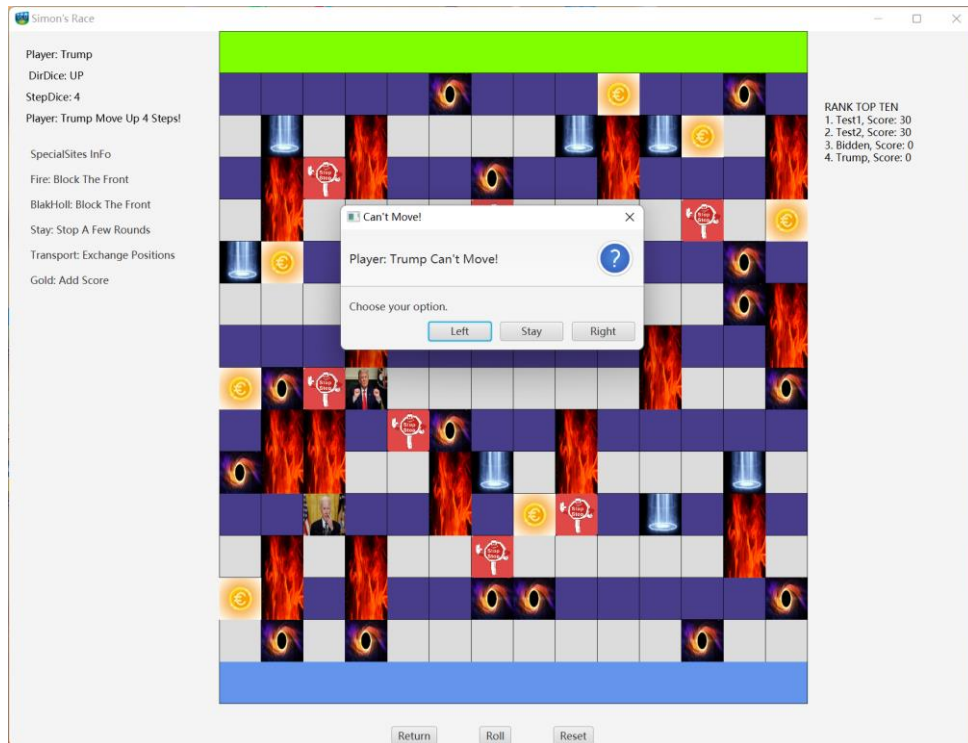

Skip few steps and finally the player wins.

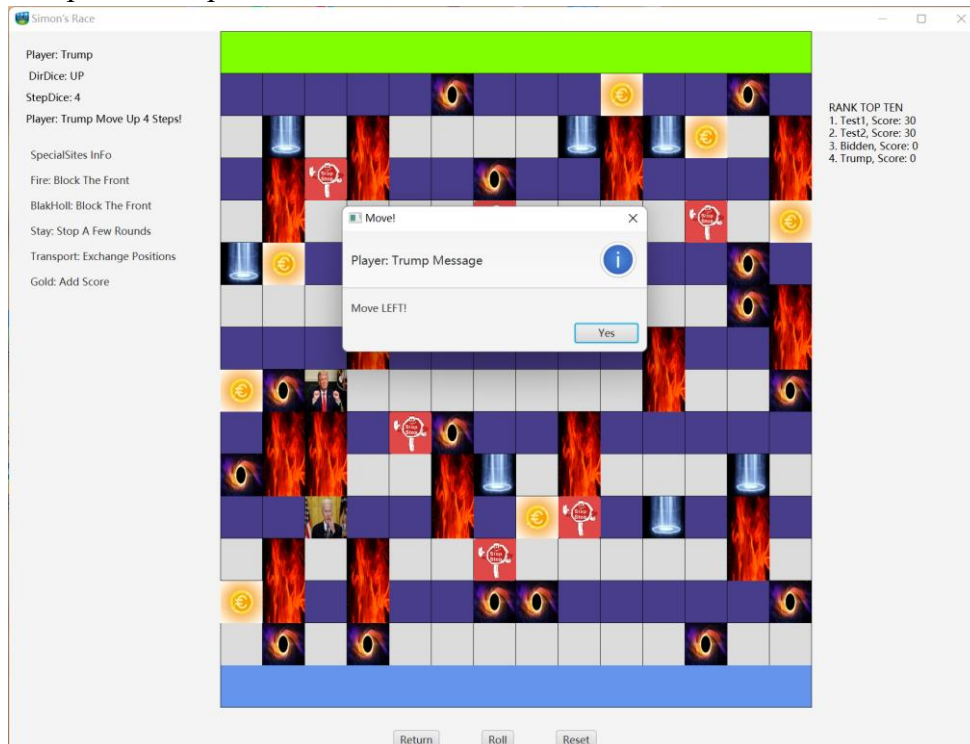

Then Game over.
